

Profile Creation Hierarchy Diagram

Mock Up Screen Notes

1. Create profile text. Add texting option and mobile phone entry.
2. Post login pages. After login the landing or “home page” would have some content based on type of user and the options of activities they can perform in the form of links or buttons (links included with options).
3. Update profile page. Same view as the create profile page but in update mode vs. create mode. The only difference is that the password and confirm password fields would not be open as they are in create profile. Instead, the clicks a change password link that would take the user to the password. The user then enters new data and clicks Save to save the new password along with other profile changes.
4. Update profile text. Same view as the create profile page with same evolution of the story to include texting option.
5. Send notification. This would be the page that an administrator uses to send a notification. The { } sections included are meant to be dynamic fields that would come up in the specified condition. If the users want to send a regional notification they would enter the address and select distance from that point. If they want to do a blast, they can send to all regardless of address.
